My name is Jerome Herveux, I am 47 years old and I embody a tale of unexpected permanence in Broome. What was meant to be a short visit 18 years ago turned into a lifelong commitment. Here I found a home, a job (I started as a Pearl diver), love, and a community, resulting in a beautiful family of four. Broome is were my children were born and raised and I couldn't imagine a better environment for their upbringing.

My deep connection to the pearling industry, a cornerstone of Broome's heritage, fuels my commitment to preserving our unique culture. What sets Broome apart is its rich diversity and the unwavering sense of community that I have cherished since day one. It is a town that value its history while consistently embracing new projects. Given all these consideration I believe I have reached a point where I can actively contribute to the development of Broome
